Once again it has happened, and once more history has repeated itself. Louis Seelbach kicked the goal, making the score, Central 12, Kentucky 6.

Coach E. R. Sweetland of the State team, said after the game that he had only one statement to make for the public. These were his words:

Notes of the Game

To the victor belong the spoils and Central got the spoils. In every game the element of chance is one that must be considered. In looking back on the game of last week it can be seen that "if" certain things had happened we might have won. We do not wish to take the sweetness of victory from Central and Kentucky is game enough to acknowledge their defeat. It was not through the poor playing of our men that we were defeated, but according to the words of a Yale football player, who saw the game "Luck was against Kentucky."

After the game many enthusiasts tried to place the blame of defeat on one man but this is not justice to the player, as he did his best and that was all Kentucky expected of him or any man on the team.

In all the newspaper accounts of athletic contests, allusion is made to some of the contestants as "stars".
This "starring" would be impossible
were it not for the help of their team mates.

Bryan Shanklin, Threldkeld, and every man on the team did the best everm man on the team did the best they could and no more was expected of them.

OTHER FOOTBALL CONTESTS.

Vanderbilt Wins.

Vanderbilt outclassed Sewanee in their annual foot ball game, winning by a score of 23 to 6. Sewanee was unable to cross the Vanderbilt goal line, her six points being due to two field goals kicked by Gillem.

Marquette, 5; Notre Dame, 5
Hard Game at Milwaukee.

Marquette and Notre Dame Universities played a 5 to 5 tie in a hotly contested game. The teams were evenly matched and it was anybody's game until the final whistle was blown Marquette suffered seriously from penalties from off side play but in the last half play was almost constantly in Notre Dame territory, the game ending with the ball on Notre Dame's 25-yard line in Marquette's possession.

Syracuse, 6; St. Louis, 0.

Syracuse University defeated St.
Louis University foot ball team here,
6 to 0. The Eastern team made three points in first period and three more in the last. The points were made by goals from the field.

Pennsy, 12; Cornell, 6.

In a hard and fast game in which there was a mixture of good and bad playing, the University of Pennsylvania foot ball team defeated Cornell on Franklin field 12 to 6; the Quakers' score being two touchdowns and two goals.

FOOTBALL RESULTS.

Pennsylvania 12; Cornell 6.
University of Pittsburg 11; State College 0.

Missouri 5; Kansas 5.

CHEER LEADER.

Mr. Duncan, who was called home on account of the illness of some of his family, has returned. Mr. Duncan was missed by more than one friend.
We all missed him in our yelling.
There was some class to it, but not much system. From the way the yelling was put forth one would judge that it is time for some one to fall in line that has enough energy to lead a yell for next year. With all due respect to the yell leaders, one would say that the yelling last Thursday was "punck." The leaders did all they could, but they lacked experience.

Some one from the junior class should be falling in line, so that he might take charge of this important position.

THE FIRST "HOUSE OF GOVERNORS."

The first "House of Governors" meet at Frankfort this week. Governors "have been," "would be" and "would have been" Governors from most of the States meet there to discuss the vital questions concerning the States and National Governments. The first session will be held in the new State Capitol, at Frankfort. The second session will be held in Louisville on November 29. "At this session,"
says a prominent New York politician, "political dynamite is to be exploded." Perhaps it would be better to say that the fuse will be fired in Louisville. The detonations are expected afterwards."

This body can not legislate, but it is second only to Congress in its study

Miss Cary,

Thanksgiving is now past with all the freedom, the pleasure and enjoyment that it brought. We had been deep in our studies for nearly three months and were very willing to welcome the short respite, when we could turn our thoughts away from work to revel in the joys of one of our most time-honored customs. Not only did we glory in the moments free from care and labor, but we feel now that we have completed a certain part of the first term's work. Thanksgiving is one of the important events of the college year, important to the students in the fact that then we feel we have accomplished something and are given the first of our well earned vacations.

There was much to rejoice us. The great Thanksgiving game was at hand and we were tingling with interest and excitement and loyalty to the game team in the South. The bulk of the first term's work has been done. Some of us have acquitted ourselves creditably, while others have unfortunately not done so well. But now we have an opportunity to redeem our failings. If we have been weak in some subjects, we still have time enough to strengthen our knowledge of them before final examinations. Yet we must realize that they are not by any means in the far distant future. If we have been studying faithfully, we have the knowledge before us that in a narrow sense we will soon be rewarded; in a narrow sense, because the consideration of a mere grade is not the thing we strive for, but only one that fades into the unimportant when we think of the great and lasting benefits to be derived from study itself.

We have all had a big time this Thanksgiving. We enjoyed the rest from all our duties. But now when our short vacation is over, we must be back in our accustomed places to enter upon the same duties, only with enlivened faculties and firm resolutions to make the most of the time from now until Christmas.

The class in Freshman English is revealing the fact that some of its members have a decided ability for writing verse. A number of poems of considerable merit have been handed in as part of the class-work and a few have been published in the Idea. The following is one that shows the good type of work that is being done: He sowed a Thought and reaped an Act;

An Act and a Habit appeared;
While Habit a Character did contract,
And Character a Destiny reared.

It is very promising to see the Freshmen entering upon their career in college with ideas of this kind in their minds. This ought to be fostered and all the latent talent developed. The University has need for a high standard in all phases of its work and just such as this is what it takes to fix that standard. So, Freshmen, do your best.

THE IDEA would like to take the time and pleasure and answer a few of the charges made against State by the narrow minded faculty men of Central, but it does not like to appear un-sportsman-like and stoop to such puerilities. The Lexington papers have very ably taken our position and have answered all the charges very satisfactorily, and in such a way that there is no way of reply from Center.

We were defeated by Central, and defeated fairly. We have no kick coming. We said what we had to say before the game, and still stick to our plans. We intend to comply with the rules governing the S. I. A. A. and if the K. I. A. A. does not change its rules in regard to the eligibility of its players, State will play no Kentucky team in basket or base ball this year. We feel that this is the wisest step to be taken, as the University is becoming one of the leading schools in the South. For this reason, we should remain in the S. I. A. A.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity, which, like the toad, ugly and venomous, wears yet the precious jewel on its head."

The defeat we had on Thanksgiving was ugly and venomous, yet we take it like men. Such adversities make us stronger. Life is not to live alone and not suffer defeats. We are preparing ourselves for life. We want to become leaders and in order to do so, we must meet with adversities. One must learn to take defeats as well as gain victories. When adversities show us up to be manly in our affairs, and wise in our actions, let them come, we can only profit therefrom. But we are sorry that our opponents won and yet are receiving the sting of the toad. We reap that which we sow. It is better to have played square and lost, than to have played otherwise and won. In course of time we will forget about our defeat, but we hope not to deviate from the path of right conduct.

The Supreme Court of the newly born state of Oklahoma, has decided that the capital shall remain at Guthrie and not be moved to Oklahoma City as Congress had decided. The child is having trouble with its head, the trouble seems to be developing into brain fever. It is strange to notice how unruly some children are, perhaps though it is due to illness. A pacifier placed in the hands of a child sometimes relieves the irritation of both parent and child, would it be advisable in this case?

A TALK WITH THE STAFF.

During the football season there was plenty of material to fill the paper, but since the season is over there will be space not filled unless the staff gets busy. Some articles handed in by the associate members were not published on account of lack of space, but the editor did his best to make up the paper.

Assignments are given out each week to certain members of the staff. Up until this week each has done good work, and the paper has been fairly good. Mistakes have been made and the editor has been to blame, but this should not keep the staff from doing its work.

The editor relies upon each associate for so much material. When each does his duty there is a full paper. Let one fail, and that means more work for the others. And when they all fail, that leaves the work on the editor and assistant. They can fill the paper, perhaps, if they are given time, but when the box is opened on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and found empty that means there are eighteen columns, or 9,000 words to be written before 8 o'clock, which is an impossibility. The paper is supposed to go to print at 5 o'clock.

The editor does not wish to knock on the members of the staff, but would like for them to know and feel the necessity of their being on the staff.

In order that the work may be lightened each week for the five members that are on, it will be necessary to increase the staff. If there are any news-mongers or any who desire to write for the paper, the editor would be glad to speak to them about it, and give them an assignment if they desire to be on the staff.

The staff is divided into four squads, and each squad is on every fourth week. This is not compared to what some of the other members of the staff have to do each week, that the paper might be a success.

Shall we place a picture on the front of the paper? Shall we make the paper smaller? Or shall we stop the publication entirely? This publication is one of the college activities, and means as much to the school as any other activity, and there is no reason why State University of Kentucky should not put out a good publication. People do not think that football is the only activity, and when it is over everything is done.

Do not think that your work for the paper is an accommodation to the editor, for it is not. Your work is a duty as well as his. Experience is all that any of us get out of it, and we should make the best of that possible.

The editor and assistant make no apology for the above article, but feel a great burden resting upon them when a squad fails to hand in any news. The above article would not have been written had the associates helped to edit this issue.

OH, YE PREPS!

All ye preps who are not of sufficient strength and size to shoulder one of Uncle Sam's guns must answer the roll call in chapel each day. Harken ye to the unrelenting voice of the mighty one, and be in chapel henceforth and forever more at 10 o'clock on each day of each week.

A dance was given in honor of the football squad by the students last Thursday evening at the Merrick Lodge building. After a day of intense excitement, and hard work on the part of the team, a pleasant evening was spent in tripping the light fantastic, and joining in the chorus of the merry-maker. The dance was well attended, and all forgot our defeat, enjoyed the evening and appreciated better the work done that day.

A RE-UNION.

At a meeting of the Union Literary Society last Saturday night many old members were present. An address was delivered by R. M. Holland, an '08 graduate. After the rendering of the program a table was spread with fruit. After partaking bountifully of the fruit, cigars were lit and all enjoyed the aftermath, except one or two who smoked their first cigar.

About $18.75 will be received at the end of the year from the season tickets purchased by the students on deposits.

The cash received at the gate

Had it been a bad day the gate receipts would have been much smaller, but the expenses would have been the same. The report above shows that at all games played on the field by visiting teams we have lost money.

More than that, we have been playing Center for several years, and never have paid her over $600 and expenses. Why should she raise a howl this year? The statement given out by the papers that the team brought their meat and water from Danville is false, or else they brought it so that they might have a kick coming. Anyhow, we paid them $1.00 each for dinner, and $1.50 for a supper, making a total of $2.50 per man allowed for meals while here.

BASKET BALL PRACTICE.

Basket ball practice began last Monday, and very few showed up. Several of the old players are back, and a bright prospect is in view. The manager is planing a trip up North, where we will meet most of the large schools of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania. No games will be made with Kentucky teams unless they conform with the rules governing the S. I. A. A.

A coach has not yet been secured for the team, but will be in course of a week or two.

All men who have ever played a game of basket ball, or any one who desires to take part in athletics, come out and practice. You may make the team and get to take this trip.

Last year's team did good work considering the circumstances which it confronted. We were defeated several times, the worst score being that that Central put up against us. Central's team last year, though, was the best in the South, and would have had good showing with any team in America. We are sorry that conditions are such that we can not play them this year.

The Hipp this week has the most delightful bill since "A Night With the Poets" established a precedent several months ago.

It would require a pretty lengthy explanation to give one the proper idea of what Wilhelm with the help of the Imperial Orchestra really furnishes. On the rise of the curtain on the act, the orchestra, ten people, plays a popular selection and on the appearance of Wilhelm, who announces the subject of the particular impersonation, the favorite composition of the composer who is being impersonated is rendered.

Wilhelm introduces all the little characters and derives no little comedy thereby. Wilhelm's offering made eccentricities true to each of the a better impression on the usual first nighters than any other act has ever made, if memory is not at fault.

Guise is a very clever fellow. His characterizations of widely different female characters furnishes something to marvel at and if it were not the disclosure at the finish of the act, the audience would never be the wiser. While his voice seemed a trifle "rusty" Monday, no one knew the difference and the surprise at the discovery that Guise is but a mere man was complete and rather disappointing to some of those who "knew he was a man all the time".

The Trambo Duo have some singing, some talking and some dancing, the most notable thing about the act being the good looks of the lady and the roller skate dancing of the man. There are other points worthy of notice, however, but these two are undeniably apparent. The dialog introduced is new and funny and the songs are clever. Henry Bobker, "The Boy Behind the Suit Case" has several imitations of sterling worth. All his changes are made with the aid of the suit case in full view of the audience.

The motion picture finishes up a bill, every act of which is a marked feature and which is worthy of capacity business the week through.

ing completion. The students have been of the greatest assistance in obtaining definite data, some times making long journeys at a personal sacrifice.

The presence of law students has added an element of definiteness to our instructions, and enlivened the discussion of current questions.

We wish to correct a mistake that was made in last week's issue, where it stated that Dr. Terrell, with his class in Sociology, visited the asylum. Dr. Terrell is the Professor of Greek, and not the Professor of Sociology. Dr. Tuthill has for the last three years been the instructor in Sociology, Economics and History. This mistake was an oversight on the part of the editor.

"K" MEN.

The following members of the football squad will receive "K's." The Varsity team: "Capt." Webb, center; Campbell and Earl, guards; Harrison and Johnson, tackles; Babb and Naylor, ends; Watkins and Shanklin, half-backs, and Threlkeld, full-back. The "subs" that will receive "K's" are Foster, G. Shanklin and Giltner. "Old Lady" Dunlap and Manager Boyd will also wear the "K."

The new men that will be taken into the "K." Association this year are Harrison, Watkins, Naylor, Foster, G. Shanklin and Boyd. The association has not organized this year, but it is hoped that they will get together and make an improvement in our athletics. Athletics this year have been on a cleaner basis than ever before, and the "K." men can do a great deal toward maintaining this standard.

NINE RAHS FOR WEBB

News has reached us that "Dick" Webb, our famous football captain, All-Southern center, is to be married during the Xmas holidays to Miss Allie Wilkerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Wilkerson, who reside on the Clay's Mill pike.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb will reside in Lexington until after the graduating exercises next June.

This comes as a surprise to the student body, and friends of "Dick." He does not think of football alone, as most of us think he does. Let us all give "Nine RaHS" for Webb.
